ANTI-MONOPOLY.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION ASSEMBLES AT PLANTING AND CLOSES ITS LABORS.

The Anti-Monopoly Convention reassembled in Reformers' Hall yesterday morning, the attendance being smaller than the previous day.

Mrs. Marion Todd, of California, was invited to speak, and made a plea for the enfranchisement of the workingmen of the country, whose condition, she said, were fast becoming [illegible].

Mr. Powell, of Kentucky, said there were three open issues of which none had been platform planted there but free speech—for one William Dorsett, a Democrat, is going to jail for the sake of Anthony. That would not afford to antagonize any element. He hoped there would be no contention of such words, and remain unflinch.

Mr. Gregory, of Iowa, said railroads, banks, land, and kind monopolies are growing [illegible]. They had sent to right another message. It was universal opinion among the people, why delay so as to [illegible] protective tariff? [Applause.] The tariff which he doubted and the remaining issues would be all the issues of. The protective tariff was a good deception. Secondly, individual outrages upon the people. It made a monopolist of the manufacturer who the protect foreign pauper labor. A second plank should also be put in.

Mr. Wait, of New York, said the tariff had two sides, but there was only one side in national conventions. That should not bring to bear that which had a tendency to the evil. The anti-monopoly movement. The people of the East were in favor of action. Now, those of the West should free trade, and those of the South, many of them, think the best way is to get along was to drop the question of the tariff. Cries of "No." Therefore they would remain outside. He was opposed to the formation of a new party because such had the States were represented, but organize a National Anti-Monopoly League. When they had LABOR vote they would hold a convention and organize a party.

The Chair ruled that the conference would form a party or not as it chose. Every delegate would be heard to its action. Mr. Wait (whose right to address another had been disputed) had been admitted to the Convention on Connecticut, and no right to a seat could not be questioned.

Mr. Leach suspended from the debate.

A delegate wanted to speak.

The Chair—He does, or I will throw him [illegible] to vote.

ADDRESSES BY SPEAKERS.

Mr. Gregory, of the District of Columbia, made a speech in reference to the duty people of Congress to the railroads, saying that money had been used to work them through. The convention should pass a resolution demanding the forfeiture of the lands, to which the railroads had no right.

The Hon. Mr. De La Matyr, of Indiana, was invited to speak, and said they were in the brightest future of the greatest convention that ever assembled—and, while to be candidate to succeed the Republican and the Democratic parties, during several long conventions, and struggled time after with the greatest gathering that ever took place, a majority of [illegible] are they only to go forward and carry out the interests of our fathers. We did for a time, and attained results mighty. But the parties of corporations, cast out of favors, had succeeded itself to a combination of class legislation to rob labor and the a gulf between the masses and the few, corporations, subservient to this monopoly as in Europe. A conspiracy had been formed and was being carried out to put the masses to the condition of those of Europe, and every patriotic man was startled and aroused. Laborers were living from hand to mouth, and stronger as 2 adults were, he would rather take his place with them than with the property holders. The present state of affairs could not continue. [Laughter.] The workingmen people could not permanently be made slaves of. [Applause.]

He closed with some Greenback talk, and said that all the "elements" would unite and work together and elect a President.

THE CONFERENCE CALLED.

Mr. Pat delivered an address upon the "Impending Crisis," advocating the organization of farmers in each State to work as one to parliament, and see if a new party could be formed. He asked the delegates not to be impatient on the anti-plank.

Mr. Gilson, of New York, offered a resolution to be considered during the recess, which provided for a Committee of Correspondence with a Chairman, a Vice-President for each State and a Secretary and Treasurer, who is to forward the work of organization, and establish branches in every town and Territory, and call a National convention, if it is held to be necessary, for the nomination of candidates, but if not necessary to hold such convention, then to call a National Convention of the Anti-Monopolists of the United States, for the purpose of forming a political party. [Cheers.]

THE ATTACHMENT ORDERS.

At the afternoon session resolutions were introduced in favor of the Workingmen's party of California, and of the Workingmen's party upon the first, a good party that succeed in carrying a county and should vote for free land. Congressional district, a majority of each Congressional district a majority of each State, and a majority of the States to make a majority of the whole.

Mr. Gregory, of Illinois, said they had taken the action of Congress in relation to the Pacific railroads. The Government had been cheated out of [illegible] by the railroads. The Government had been cheated out of [illegible] by the railroads. The Government had been cheated out of [illegible] by the railroads.

Mr. Gilson, of New York, offered a resolution to be considered during the recess, which provided for a Committee of Correspondence with a Chairman, a Vice-President for each State and a Secretary and Treasurer, who is to forward the work of organization, and establish branches in every town and Territory, and call a National convention, if it is held to be necessary, for the nomination of candidates, but if not necessary to hold such convention, then to call a National Convention of the Anti-Monopolists of the United States, for the purpose of forming a political party. Counsel Secured by Architect Hill to Protect His Interests—Deportation of Whisky.

[SPECIAL TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4.—[Special.]—Bluhmlo is determined to defeat the conspiracy to ruin Ewing and the monstrous attempt made at the last session of Congress to secure $75,000 as public property, after the close of Congress. Since July 1 a blizzard has occurred from the Secretary of the Treasury subordinate to the following form, although this may not be the exact language used: "I will have nothing to do with Isidor Bluhmlo further in the matter of the Bluhmlo judgments, but if you can succeed in securing the money I will consent to execute the marshal's deed to your individual credit for $25,000 and give you two days to decide." At the same time the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury is called to an affidavit in the Bluhmlo-Ewing-Hill case, which has been filed and printed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Sept. 26, 1884, in which the following statement is made:

"That he was the chairman pro tem of the meeting [meaning a meeting of a majority of the directors of the South Chicago Company, and at such meeting one Ewing was elected upon the books of that company. He, deponent and others, and several public contracts who were employed in building the government piers at the mouth of the Calumet River, were informed by Mr. Ewing that the Secretary of the Treasury had refused to pay the bills of the contractors for the work done on the piers, unless they would pay to Isidor Bluhmlo, of Chicago, a commission of 10 per cent on the amount of the contracts. Deponent and others refused to pay the commission, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill, the Secretary of the Treasury, and would get the money without paying the commission to Bluhmlo. Deponent and others then employed Ewing to collect the money from the government, and Ewing then stated that he would have to have $25,000 for his services, and that he would get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $25,000, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $10,000 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $10,000, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $5,000 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $5,000, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $2,500 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $2,500, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $1,000 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $1,000, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $500 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $500, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $250 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $250, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $100 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $100, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $50 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $50, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $25 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $25, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $10 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $10, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $5 for his services. Deponent and others refused to pay Ewing the $5, and Ewing then stated that he would see Mr. Hill and get the money without paying Bluhmlo anything, and that he would have to have $2 for his services. SAMUEL MEDICINES.

Mr. Sumner's recent utterances regarding his resignation or go on a Presidential ticket with Samuel J. Tilden as nominee of all the loud voices that had so far received enough publication.

The Anti-Monopoly Convention at Dellwood Park, Chicago, adjourned with very little definiteness left out of the three that occupied precisely the time and previous that. Before its doors had vanished on wheels, a vote of 10 to 9 was recorded against holding any stand on the tariff, and short debates on the resolutions upon questions discussed the re-affirmation of the delegates to make a party principle out of that single of popular opinion. The resolutions so finally passed were with where a unanimity large number of fringe existing and sure to exist, and pledge the delegates to forced support as a party from either constitutions or affiliation with the two leading political organizations of the country.

There is a coolness in the following dispatch which is elaborately refreshing to those who have been:

It is rumor that a power has been constituted in the Treasury Department, whereby the Secretary of the Treasury shall have the power to issue Treasury notes to the amount of $500,000,000 without the intervention of Congress. Such power should not be delegated to any one man.

The department a few hours since announced the receipt of a portion of the Treasury notes, which, it was brought her within a hundred miles of us of Lightertown, but this dispatch intimates that Boutwell cannot agree to to the Albino Senator. At Harland will return, of course, in such a necessary and transaction, and Trouble is to favor of all responsibility, to continue to be done what Boutwell will and what England thoroughly has.

The country has not just escaped from the long and agonizing suspense over the nomination of Seymour and Blair to search of each other to satisfy their wounded honors before it is plunged afresh into another by the wounded honors of the editor of the Times and Mr. David S. Sheehan, Who is reported to be a sculptor in New York. Sheehan, we know as the seconds and to arrange affairs, fail to the foreign shores of Gotham, and Mr. Times may once be heard of promised him by way of Commodore and Baron. Those two gentlemen, however, should remember that there is a limit to the patience of the public to these hot feats, and that, rather than be kept on the mark for next fought of time, we outraged and hurt suffering community and the up and-and with these blessing often.

It is announced that at the forthcoming autumn session of the Council School of Philosophy the most conspicuous paper to be read and discussed will be that of Trall, Harris on the "Distinction of Reality and Personality from Time Actuality." Prof. Harris is from St. Louis, and it is a matter of congratulation that a man from that city, where there is no true Actuality, is to study Actuality, which has troubled the world since Adam. Those who remember Adam will be glad to hear of the subject, as long. As soon as he settles it, whatever it is, we may expect to see St. Louis start upon a fresh career of disastrous growth and commanding future prospects. Chicago has no sense feelings of envy or jealousy in this matter, She is willing to be entertained on the real distinction between Reality and Personality and the True Actuality, and she thinks suggest that St. Louis was there cut on the train. Some subject before that awful array of scholars at Concord will be hardly deemed here, particularly if the subject has any connection with land, high farms, or stone-colored houses, which seem to be fashion. Although we are not quite so sure that does not Personality differ from an Actuality. Last year, at the Concord School, Mr. Bronson Alcott informed the world that Actuality was the Triangular of the Here. During the time to the nonsense, O Mr. Harris is in any way about we may prove it for.

The steamer has not just escaped from the wrong and agonizing suspense over the nomination of Seymour and Blair to search of each other to satisfy their wounded honors before it is plunged afresh into another by the wounded honors of the editor of the Times and Mr. David S.
